

Nicole Cooley

The eight newborn monkeys have their own cages, with equal access to a cloth and a wire mother.

If I wanted to stay with her, I was told to put on the lead dress.

My daughter wore a blue-sprigged hospital gown. I was not allowed to hold her. I tried to soothe her but the lead collar choked my voice out of my throat.