

RISHMA DUNLOP

Dream

I'm playing piano in an empty room
Even though I never learned to play well—
It's a heavy love, not a soft solo
This music, and I can't stop playing
For the broken bones of Victor Jara—
a kind of madness brought home,
dreamt, until his hands are cut off.